

Title IX in Practice: Avoiding Common Pitfalls

Lindsey Dunn, Senior Risk Management Counsel, UE

Jody Shipper, Co-Founder and Managing Director, Grand River Solutions

Agenda

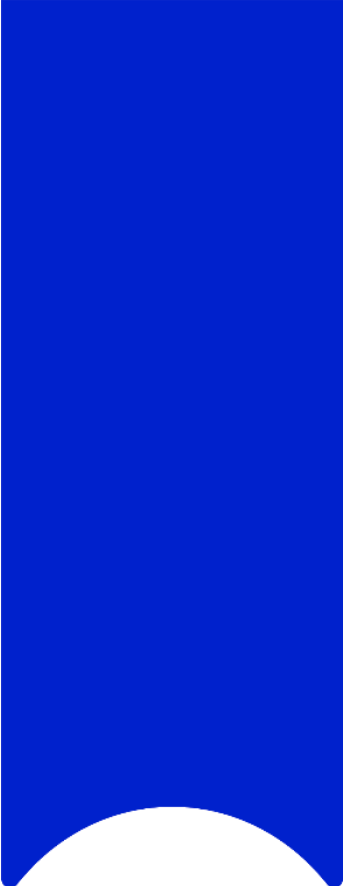

- Current Title IX landscape and webinar scope
- Common pitfalls institutions encounter in practice
- Practical steps to reduce risk before, during, and after a matter

A large blue decorative shape on the left side of the slide, resembling a stylized 'U' or a banner with a curved bottom.

Pitfall 1

Reports Do Not Get to the Right People

Prevent problems before the process begins

A large blue decorative shape on the left side of the slide, resembling a stylized 'U' or a banner with a curved bottom.

Pitfall 2

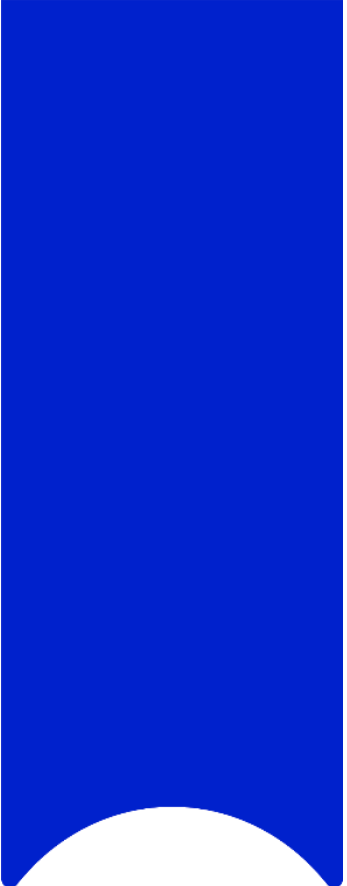

Deciding Too Quickly That Something Is “Not Title IX”

Triage responsibility, not just process eligibility

Pitfall 3

Taking Procedural Shortcuts

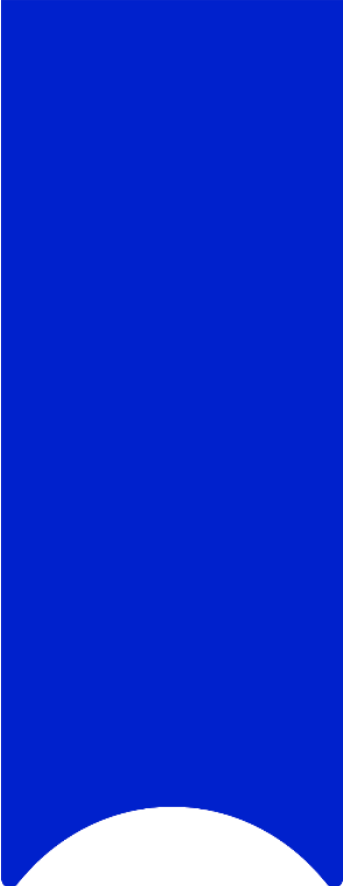

Do not let “obvious” facts replace the required process

A large blue decorative shape on the left side of the slide, resembling a stylized 'U' or a banner with a curved bottom.

Pitfall 4

Treating Title IX as a Silo

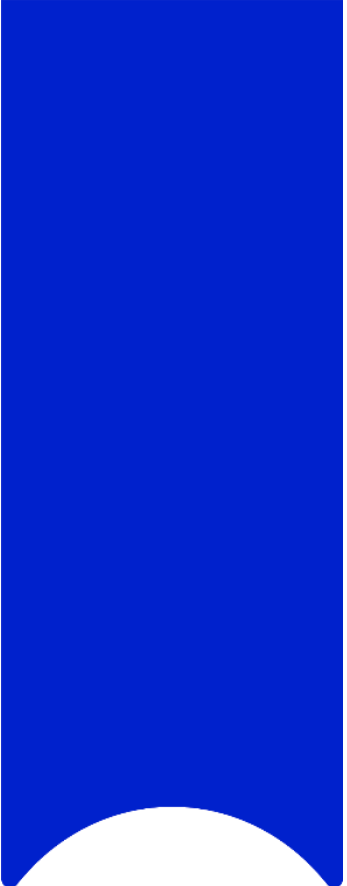

Coordinate across offices without confusing ownership

A large blue decorative shape on the left side of the slide, resembling a stylized 'U' or a banner with a curved bottom.

Pitfall 5

Focusing on the Investigation and Forgetting What Happens Around It

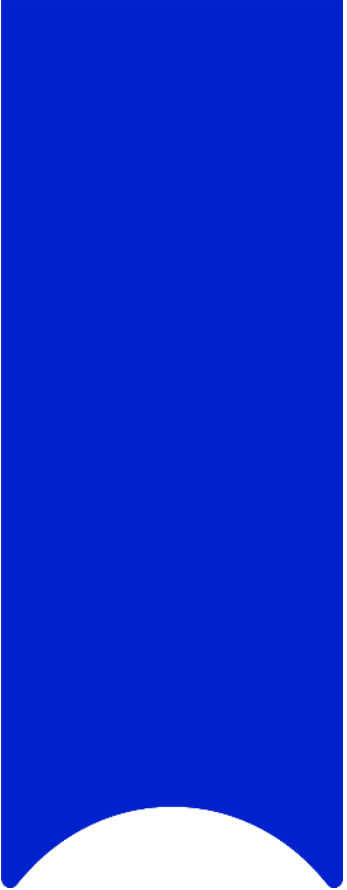

Risk continues before, during, and after the investigation

A large blue decorative shape on the left side of the slide, resembling a stylized 'U' or a banner with a curved bottom.

Pitfall 6

Letting the Title IX Program Run on Autopilot

Review whether written policy and actual practice still align

A solid blue shape on the left side of the slide, resembling a vertical banner with a curved bottom edge.

Q+A

Stay Connected

*The material appearing in this presentation is for informational purposes. It should not be considered legal or coverage advice or used as such. For legal advice, contact your legal counsel.
For coverage-related questions, contact your broker. Copyright © 2026 by United Educators Insurance, a Reciprocal Risk Retention Group. All rights reserved.*